World		Dalat Thai Thinh Capital Joint-stock Company on April 17 started the construction of a cultural, historical and floral park on area of 9.6 hectares on Ba Huyen Thanh Quan street, Da Lat city.
Vietnam and the world	The park, built at a cost of over VND 900 billion, will have three sections.
World	The A section is to display collections of rare flowers and ornamental plants including temperature magnolia hill, maple forest and century-old trees.
Army		“Typical coloured flowers and plants in the moderate climate will be present in the park. A glass house will be built to provide a natural environment suitable for these rare plants”, said Tran Van Vinh, the company’s CEO.
Internal Affairs	The B section will host an underground structure including a museum with wax statues and images of Vietnamese culture and history from the past to now. Antiques and souvenirs collected and presented by private collectors are also showcased in this museum for education and research.
External Affairs	The last section is for technical infrastructure, management and housing.
TV Online		The park is planned to be completed and open in early 2011 under the management of Colliers International Property Management and Business company.
 Vietnam TV	At the ground-breaking ceremony, Thai Thinh company announced to grant more than VND 2 billion to build new houses for the poor, expand the kindergarten P.10 and support the city’s Study Encouragement Fund as well as Green Tree Foundation.
